Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.An excerpt from The Bookman, Vol. 48: WHEN the earth is apportioned to the novelists, yielding to each his own chosen territory, then certainly to Algernon Blackwood must be given undisputed right to the territory of the occult. Hovering ever, in form, on the border-land between fiction and prose fantasy, so does he hover ever in content on that vague border-land between the actual and the unseen. But there is a great difference between the Blackwood of John Silence and the other earlier works, and the Blackwood of today as we learn to know him in The Garden of Survival. The forces of the world around and beyond the known world, of the Unknown-always the true protagonist of a Blackwood story- were, in the earlier works that brought fame to their creator, forces either directly inimical or at least cruelly indifferent to man. Here, in this exquisite tale, we find a force emanating from the Unknown which strives benevolently for man's good. And, again a difference, it is not some primitive force that was before man, and will be after man has passed from the earth, but it is a force which exerts itself through the souls of those who have gone before. It is an eternal force, the force of love, but it works through the reawakened memory of the lost ones. It was not easy to tell in cold words the plot of this least definite in action and most charmingly simple in style of all Blackwood stories. It is told in the first person, by an Englishman of position, a soldier and later the governor of an African colony. He tells us that he...
