Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Corinne of the Circus Corinne, a girl of eighteen, very sweet and dainty in her manner. Should be played by a slightly built girl, dressed in the tarleton skirts of a Circus rider. Joseph Ambrosia Jones, a good-looking man not over thirty-five years, dresses to represent the typical countryman, but not exaggerated. Drucilla Jones, a woman of forty, good-hearted, but fussy and talkative. Wears a costume a little behind the times in the first act. Bright colored house dresses in the second and third. Harvey, the manager of the Circus. A man of middle age, wears plain business suit, but suggests the showman. Davis, the ringmaster. A man of thirty-five. Rather good-looking. Wears in first act the ringmaster s costume of white breeches, riding boots, red coat and high hat. In second and third acts plain business suit. Ted, the jockey. A boy of fourteen. Wears in first act a jockey s costume. In second and third acts plain suit. Dr. Thorne, a good-looking young man of twenty-five years. (A number of extra people for Circus.) Tent can be made by throwing a large strip of canvas over a brace made of three poles, the corners of the canvas having cords to pass through screw rings screwed into the stage floor at the right distance. The smaller tents are only partly on stage and can be easily constructed. Act I. The county fair grounds at New Freedom. The circus. Act II. The home of Joseph Ambrosia Jones. Five weeks later. Act III. The same. The next morning. Plays Two Hours. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find...
